

Abstract

We give an introduction to basic ideas and various recent mathematical developments about quantization that arises from quantum field theory and string theory. Several applications to geometry and topology, including recent work on factorization homology and index theory, will be discussed along the journey.